Pass utility dept. to get drain cleaner

The Pass Christian board of alderman voted Tuesday night to accept a $6,562.80 bid for a sewer-drain cleaner offered by the Naylor company of Baton Rouge.

James Welsh, city utilities superintendent, humorously urged the board to buy the cleaner saying, "This machine cleans drains, sewers, and can put out fires. Gulfport has one; Long Beach has one; the Bay has one; we don't and I'm tired of borrowing theirs." The motion to buy the cleaner was passed unanimously.

In other business, the board tabled a request from deLaureal Engineers for an increase in its contract with the city for smoke testing. The company had requested an increase in the original contract from $91,800 to $103,600.

The board also tabled a request from the Harrison County Retardation Center for $1,000.

The board voted to reject three bids the city received for metal culverts and to reopen advertising for the culverts.

The board accepted bids from:

–Faulkner Concrete Pipe Company for concrete pipe;

–Pass Christian Shell Company for shells at $3.50 per square yard;

–Bond Paving Company for hot mix asphalt at $10.50 per square yard;

–Holcomb Asphaly Company for cold mix asphalt at $11.50 per square yard;

– Coast Materials Company for ready-mix concrete at $20.50 per square yard;

– Pass Christian Tarpon-Beacon for $2,000 letter-heads at $32.50 and 2,000 envelopes at $32.50.

The board also approved $2,431 as final payment of Street Improvement, Phase I to Bond Paving Company and Brown and Russell Engineering.

In other business, the board appointed:

–Harry Boz to the Park Commission for a five year term;

–Herbert Hanson to fill a vacancy on the Housing Authority to September, 1974;

–Tom Curry to the Housing Board of Adjustments and Appeals for a five year term.

Bidwell Barnes was reappointed to the School Board of Trustees for a term of five years. The board tabled appointments for Citizens Participation.

The board voted to retain three city employees originally hired through the Emergency Employment Program. Goldman Ray, utilities worker, was hired for the rest of the fiscal year at a rate of $2.50 per hour. Mike Smith, fireman, was hired at $445 per month; and William Markopoulis, policeman, at $435 per month.

In other business, the board voted to renew the harbor leases of John Kimball and Albert Bennet at $2 per foot of harbor wall space used per year. The board also authorized the city attorney to write up a lease contract for a bait shop on the west wall of the harbor, south of the second pier.

The board also voted to purchase $30 of Carnival doobloons for the city float and a full page ad in the Carnival Program at a cost of $60. The board also voted in a 3-to-2 vote to give $50 for partial sponsorship of the WVMI broadcast of the Mardi Gras Parade.

Gulfport firm gets contract

Weaver and Sons, a Gulfport builder, was awarded the contract for renovation of the Hancock county court house at a Monday meeting.

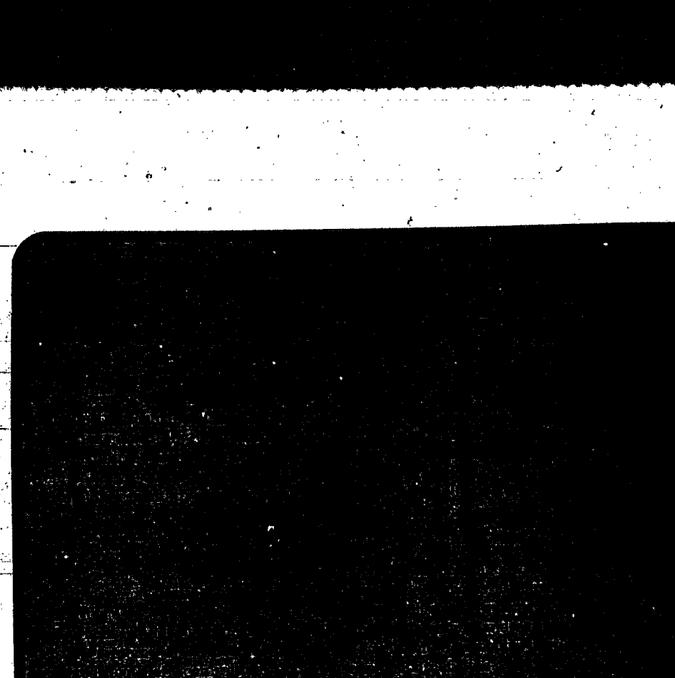

Of five firms bidding on the job, estimated to cost close to $100,000, Weaver and Terry Feeney of Waveland had identical bid prices of $134,000 as lowest bidders. However, Feeney's bid called for completion in 180 calendar days and Weaver's for 120 calendar days.

Other firms bidding included E. J. Pizzetta, Biloxi, with $146,448; Gregory Constructors, Inc., Gulfport, bidding $149,839 and Waveland contractor Charles H. Johnson, bidding $172,069.69. All bids except Weaver were for 180 days completion.

A bid opening date was set for March 11, 10 a.m. for overlay of the beach road from Wispering Pines St. to Nicholson Aye. and from Nicholson to Waveland Ave. The work will be performed under revenue sharing money as overlay of that section of the road was not included in the Emergency Relief project recently concluded, the county engineer explained.

Grand Marshal Sebastian Cabot, international stage, screen and television star will lead the Krewe of Nereids carnival parade in Waveland as 1974 Grand Marshal February 17.

Sebastian Cabot to lead Nereids parade

Sebastian Cabot, known as England's largest export or America's biggest import, and star of TV, stage and motion pictures, will be Grand Marshal of the Krewe of Nereids parade to be held in Waveland February 17.

The Sunday event will roll at 2 p.m. along a route through Waveland, culminating the yearly Mardi Gras celebration of the all-female Krewe of Nereids.

Mr. Cabot is best known on TV as the urbane Mr. French, the perfect English gentleman, with Buffy and Jody in "Family Affair". His most recent TV appearance was Dec. 14 as "Kris Kringle" in the remake of the classic Christmas Show for CBS. "Miracle on 34th Street".

His first appearance on the London stage was in "A Bell for Adano", in 1945. For the next two years, he interspersed his BBC assignments with film and stage roles including the London run of "Crime and Punishment", starring Peter Ustinov and John Gieglud.

In 1947, Cabot came to the United States for the first time, to appear in Gielgud's New York presentation of "Love for Love". His English movies, most of which were filmed in Italy, France and Germany include "Romeo and Juliet", "Othello", and "Tony Draws a Horse". He also made numerous appearances on European television, the most notable being 26 episodes of "The Three Musketeers" series, in which he played Porthos.

In 1955 the now-seasoned actor returned to the United States, where he has remained to play the distinctively bearded Wazir in the film version of "Kismet". Other roles followed in "Westward Ho The Wagons", "Omar Khyyam", "Johnny Tremaine", "The Angry Hills', "Say One For Me", "Seven Thieves", "The Time Machine", "Twice Told Tales" and "The Family Jewels", made with Jerry Lewis. He has also made several contributions to the Disney Studios in the form of narratives and he was the voice in such animated pictures as "The Sword and the Stone", "Jungle Book" and "Winnie, the Pooh".

Widely known for the past few years as the urbane Dr. Carl Hyatt in the "Checkmate" series, Cabot has appeared in dozens of television programs. Among these have been special guest roles on "Gunsmoke", Alfred Hitchcock Presents", "Climax", Playhouse 90", "Desilu Playhouse", "Twilight Zone", "Bonanza" and "The Red Skelton Show.

The perfect picture of the proverbial English gentlemen of culture, of impeccable taste and with formidable knowledge of the classic, as well as a gourmet, Sebastian's idea of a perfect pastime, paradoxically, is repairing antique automobile engines, elbow deep in grease and oil.

Pass girl drowns in boating accident

Gretchen Ann Jones, 20, of Pass Christian, drowned Sunday in a boating accident in Lake Ponchartrain which also claimed the life of Lloyd A. Bailey, 28, of Shaw, Miss.

The coroner's office in New Orleans said that Miss Jones died from drowning but that Bailey died from "multiple contusions of the body." Police reports ruled both deaths accidential.

Bailey's 16-foot green and white sailboat was found washed against the Lakefront Airport and Industrial Canal Breakwater Monday at 1:15 p.m. Bailey's body was located near the boat, according to officials.

When the boat and body were discovered, officials did not know that Miss Jones had been aboard the sail boat and no search was begun until later when her family, notified she was missing, asked the Coast Guard to aid in the search. Her body was discovered Monday night.

A family spokesman said Miss Jones had gone to New Orleans to stay with friends and work until the spring quarter of the University of Southern Mississippi when she planned to reenter the university.

Waveland

Four in race for mayor's seat

JOHN LONGO JR.

MRS. COLLEEN EVANS

MELVIN R. VILLERE

WILLIAM T. SOLDINIE

by Dan Barber

Four candidates will face the voters Saturday in Waveland's special mayoralty election to fill the unexpired term of office of the late Garfield Ladner who died in office last Dec. 11. The later mayor's term of office will expire on Dec. 3 of this year necessitating another general election in November.

Leading the field of candidates is John Longo Jr., 45, presently serving as mayor pro tem and a long time member of the board of aldermen. Longo, who is a strong contender for the post because of his long association with the late mayor and his experience on the council, has run a very low key campaign, depending on his popularity and associations made over the years to carry him.

Longo would certainly like to move into the mayor's chair on a permanent basis and gain credit for seeing the completion of a $2.3 million sewage treatment and collection plant that he was instrumental in securing funding for. He also has pledged continued support of the city in working for better police and fire protection, education, and municipal finance.

Longo actually ran the city during the long illness of the late mayor Ladner and was frequently called on by him to expedite local appeals for state and federal funding for different projects. Longo claims that Waveland was the only municipality in the coastal area that received any type of disaster aid following Hurricane Betsy in 1965.

He is definitely against any decentralization of power of the mayor's office, particularly any talk of separating the utilities department from the hands of the mayor. This could only result, he says, in decreased efficiency and increased cost to the taxpayers.

On the other side of the coin is Mel Villere, 55-year-old general contractor who is in his second mayor's race and who has been a heavy campaigner for the seat. Villere was defeated in his bid against the late mayor Ladner in 1970. He has drawn his campaign around the proposal that Waveland needs a full time mayor, and lists in his favor his long experience in the construction industry. Villere has announced that if elected he intends to close his business and devote his full time to the mayor's job.

Of special appeal to the women voters is the candidacy of Mrs. Colleen Evans, 41-year-old mother of five, who decided to run, she says, to prove that all politicians are not crooked.

"I thought it might inspire somebody else to get out and try it instead of the same group all the time," she said. "I'm a positive thinker and feel that I have as good a chance to win as anyone."

Mrs. Evans, who readily admits she has no experience, defends her position saying she believes the major qualifications for the job to be good common sense and a feeling for the people of the city.

"I probably have a disadvantage being a woman because a lot of people say they don't feel women should be in politics, but I have had alot of en-

SHORTLES
BY ADOREE

Dear Sam,

I'm not sure this epistle will ever reach you in the Bahamas as the weather here for weeks has threatened to wipe out that old adage about the U. S. Mail .... you know, the one about "neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow ...." It doesn't say anything about the whole world disappearing in a solid blanket of fog, which has hung on through days of torrential downpours. I notice the sea gulls are walking and I passed a duck the other day, hitchhiking back North.

Things have been so bad even the tides have gotten confused. On a couple of occasions the tide has come in, gone out and come in again - all on the same day. It was impossible to tell which way it was going as when the tide went out, the rainwater rushed in. And there are residents in the heart of town who are complaining that the tide is higher on some of the streets than it is in the bay.

If you were scuba diving here, you'd get raptures of the deep before you submerged.

It's really a twilight zone and I think Mother Nature is getting revenge for all those Godawful commercials. The unreal weather is causing some unbelievable things to happen, such as:

Four men sallied forth into the Sound to fish and hunt from an off shore ridge (very far off!). Two left the camp to set traps and promptly got lost in the fog. Two days later, when the fog lifted enough to see which way was out to sea, a bunch of men went out in boats to find them. Pandemonium resulted as searchers got lost drifting around in the fog looking for the two lost guys, and more boats went in search of the lost searchers. After about 12 hours it began to look like a recreation of Dunkirk and the fellow who had brought the three neophyte fishermen out there (and who knew where he was all the time) got disgusted. He said later if the fog hadn't lifted and they all found each other "they'd have been looking for those turkeys for two weeks".

Two other out-of-town men didn't fare so well last week. They went fishing with two companions off shore from Pass Christian and when the motor broke down, two left the boat to swim ashore in the fog. They still haven't been found.

Meanwhile, back on shore people are doing even stranger things. One can only conclude that the fog has soaked into some heads, befuddling the thought processes.

Law enforcement officers, testifying in criminal court cases, are revealing facts that heretofore have been regarded as absolutely verboten. A local narcotics agent on the stand blurted out the name of a confidential informer which caused his fellow agent to come unglued.

In another case, the sheriff and the district attorney went into cardiac arrest when a deputy alluded to the D.A. "making a deal" with a murder suspect in an effort to elicit a confession from the man. It's rumored that the agent, the deputy and the informer are collaborating on short stories for "True Confessions" mag - from somewhere in South America.

The best story of all comes right off the police blotter - and it's a true story. Three local youths were arrested recently and brought to the county jail where they were put through an intensive "interrogation", complete with the usual roughing up, raps on the rib cage with a night stick and threats to life and limb if they "didn't talk". All three had been arrested by the local fuzz before so they were sort of used to the routine, but one kept insisting that since they didn't know what they had been arrested for he didn't know what they were supposed to talk about.

Finally, deciding that the session was going to remain unproductive, the deputies called parents of two of the boys to bail them out and put the third in the hole (the maximum security cell - designed by the Devil's Island architect). By the next morning, still having revealed nothing, he too was let out on bail. The charge, it turned out, was trespassing. And in the justice of the peace court hearing later, the complainant told the judge she had had the three juveniles arrested because they had gone into her house in her absence and eaten a bowlful of banana pudding! The J.P. didn't even wait for the defendants to explain that her son had invited them in to eat the pudding - he just dismissed the case rather peremptorily.

I thought that last one would cheer you up .... where ever you are.

MTF hosts two-state workshop on federal technology use

Some 175 key officials of the states of Louisiana and Mississippi and the federal government met last week at the NASA Mississippi Test Facility for a workshop in a pioneering effort to better use federal resources for the solving of today's problems at the state level.

This workshop was the second in a series of two being conducted as part of a study by the Mississippi Research and Development Center, the Gulf South Research Institute of La. and the National Science Foundation on "State Use of Federal Technical Resources".

Following welcoming remarks by Jackson M. Balch, director, NASA-MTF, William D. Carey, vice president of Arthur D. Little, Inc., Boston, MA and former assistant director, Bureau of the Budget, Office of the President, spoke on "Technology Transfer".

Carey said, "There is a distinct danger that the states will be forced into making decisions for which they are not ready or do not have the means to do unless federal technology is made available."

He said further that: "Here at MTF we have all the ingredients of a workable and sensible demonstration of technological transfer and it would be a shame to "blow it".

Former governor of New Mexico and now president of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States, Jack M. Campbell, was the principal speaker at an evening banquet meeting at Diamondhead, which was the accommodations center for the workshop.

The first meeting, which was structured into 11 panels dealing with practically all aspects of state government technology, technical and human resources, dealt with the technical needs of these two states, the barriers that they experience in dealing with the Federal government, and the methods they consider most effective in obtaining and using federal technical resources.

The purposes of Workshop II were:

- To provide an opportunity for federal representatives to respond to the technical needs and barriers as identified by the states in the first workshop.

- State and Federal personnel to jointly examine new mechanisms or arrangements which could enhance the transfer of Federal technical resources to problem solutions at the state level.

- Identify specific state needs or projects which could serve as pilot efforts to test arrangements.

Panel discussions included areas of education; transportation; marine resources; water resources; health; environmental-pollution control; energy and mineral resources; public administration and welfare; economic development; agriculture, forestry and recreation; and public safety.

Anti-pollution groups press for action

Two Bay St. Louis anti-pollution groups accosted Hancock county supervisors Monday asking for support of that body in their fight against further contamination of the Jourdan River-Watts Bayou area.

Tom Cain, speaking for the Jourdan River Anti-Pollution League, reiterated past statements of complaint against the discharge of wastewater into Watts, or Edwards Bayou and Jourdan River from the Bay St. Louis oxidation pond. The group is now apprehensive, Cain said, about the Waveland sewer treatment system which will purportedly discharge into the same waters.

Cain said a recent communication from Glen Woods, Jr., director of the Air and Water Pollution Control Commission, stated that Waveland doesn't have the money to route effluent discharge from its treatment plant, now under construction, any way other than into the bayou and river.

Skeptical of accepting that as a valid reason, Cain said, "Waveland doesn't want it in their backyard. They want to dump it in our front yard."

The majority of the members in the anti-pollution league, which now numbers about 200, are property owners in the Watts Bayou-Jourdan River area and have been complaining of unsanitary and intolerable conditions for about a year.

Cain said, "We were told last year by Jackson officials that according to federal standards, Waveland will either have to build its own system or join with Bay St. Louis' system, but either way both would have to discharge into the bayou and the river."

The other group appealing to the supervisors for action was headed by Robert Warner, a student at St. Stanislaus. Warner, speaking for Youth Against Pollution, a newly formed organization at the Bay St. Louis boys' school, asked why the board of supervisors couldn't take definitive action as the Jourdan River is under county jurisdiction.

To board president A. A. "Dolph" Kellar's rejoinder that the county health department or the two city councils should be contacted for a solution, Warner said his group had already approached a county health officer and a Bay city commissioner.

The health officer, Tom Pope, told him that infiltration from cisterns and septic tanks in neighboring subdivisions were magnifying the problem but the absence of a county building code when the subdivisions were developed prevented regulatory agencies from forcing

Scouting in America- 64 years old tomorrow

The Boy Scouts of America will be 64 years old on February 8, 1974. The entire month of February will be an Anniversary Celebration for Scouting.

Every pack, troop and post is planning some special open house or other event for boys and parents to celebrate the 64th anniversary birthday.

The National emphasis this year is Get Involved For Them (GIFT), a service - motivated effort to promote continued participation in established activities such as Project SOAR, Operation Reach, and the World Friendship Fund.

Each Cub Scout Pack will hold its annual Blue and Gold Banquet during February. Boy Scout Troops will hold an open house program for parents and friends including a rededication to the principles of the Scout Oath and Law. Many Explorer Posts will celebrate by staging a special party or other social event to which the Explorers invite their friends.

Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources) is the continuing conservation activity and will be emphasized in February in preparation for the big events to follow throughout the year.

Scouts will give visual evidence that Scouting is a worthwhile program relevant to today. Scouts will show Boypower as character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness.

Waveland mayor's race

couraging signs."

Mrs. Evans is not running on any particular platform because "I didn't want to make any promises yet," but is in favor of getting the streets back in shape and bringing industry to the area.

Rounding out the candidates is William T. Soldinie, Jr., a 49-year-old former contractor, who also has never held public office before. Soldinie refers to a 1947 alderman race from the third ward as his only previous political venture.

Soldinie believes that the city presently has no system of operation and is against the direction of the utilities department falling under the hand of whoever is mayor.

"I think the utilities department should have its own office appointed by the board of aldermen. It's been running under the mayor ever since it started. Naturally he wanted it, but instead of one man operating two or three things—branch it out."

Soldinie said that he made his mind up six months ago that he would run for the mayor's office in the next general election.

He also is in favor of advertising nationally in an effort to get more industry to locate locally, so that in his words "we can keep the local people employed here year round."

All candidates were busy this week making last minute appeals to friends and potential voters for their support. In the unlikely event that no one candidate receives a majority of the votes cast a run-off election will be held Saturday Feb. 16 for the top two contenders.

Saturday's winner should take an edge into the general election in November, and the atmosphere in Waveland this week was certainly one of intense anticipation.

Waveland to re-surface streets

Waveland aldermen authorized the city engineer Tuesday night to effect a change order with Byrd Building Service and Wilcon Inc. directing the installation of a double bituminous surface for city streets torn up by the installation of sewer pipe instead of performing patch work with a hot asphalt mix.

Board attorney Lucien Gex Jr. told aldermen that contractors would need approximately three weeks to order the aggregate mix for the bituminous surface but were instructed to begin patch work on some smaller side streets today.

Adlermen selected Jeff Davis, Sears Ave., Meadow Lane, Herlihy and Market Streets to receive the surfacing work first.

W. G. Bertschinger of Lewis and Eaton engineering consultants of Jackson told the aldermen that total cost of the resurfacing would run approximately $83,000 of which the contractor would be responsible for a portion of that amount.

Bertschinger said that his firm would supervise the surfacing of the streets to include any grading, shaping, and compacting that was necessary of present roads.

The council granted a request of the Bay-Waveland Humane Society for five gallons of disinfectant for the city dog pound and agreed to have the dog yard sprayed to eliminate odors in the pound.

Terry Feeney, commander of American Legion Post 77 requested the board grant an exception to zoning regulations pertaining to property that the Post is purchasing for the construction of a new building.

Attorney Gex advised Feeney that the Legion would have to ask for a variance and hold a public hearing to change the zoning restrictions.

The council recessed until next Monday.

Hancock North Central gets new elementary principal

Dr. Paul Shafer was approved as the new elementary principal at Hancock North Central School by the county school board Tuesday while a recommendation that Mrs. Paul Shafer be hired to replace Doc Thigpen, who is retiring at HNC, was tabled pending the board's receipt of Thigpen's letter of resignation.

The board also approved the renewal of a one year contract with Jerry Mullin as assistant principal at Hancock North Central after two board members expressed some displeasure over actions of Mullins at the school.

Mullins came in for criticism from board member Johnnie Banks for assuming too much authority and from board member Tom Shaw for "sticking his nose in too many things that he shouldn't have."

J. A. O'Neal, principal of the Hancock High School, took up the defense of Mullins saying that the operation of the school was not a one man affair.

"Are you saying that I should do Mr. Mullins job?" O'Neal asked. "This is a two man operation up there as I have said all along. Maybe you gentlemen think that I sit up there and do nothing."

O'Neal said that he and Mullins were presently gathering information on teachers and personnel at the school for yearly evaluations but that Mullins was not participating in decision making capacity as far as deciding who would be rehired or who would be fired.

Board member Eric Larsen said that he thought Mullins and O'Neal were doing an excellent job at the school and recommended that the board take action immediately on Mullins' contract. O'Neal had recommended that the board sign a two-year contract with Mullins if this was what principals at other schools were receiving.

"We ought to resolve this one way or another," Larsen said, "so that Mr. Mullins won't be operating as a lame duck."

The board also accepted the resignation of Dorothy Harris as County Nurse and took under advisement bids received from Bay Waveland Pest Control Company for pest treatment at Gulfview School.

State officials split

According to Riley, "House Bill 1250 provides for the establishment of 'an agency for the custody, study, discipline, training and treatment of persons in the correctional and detention institutions and for the study, training and treatment of persons under the supervision of other correctional services within the state so that they may be prepared for lawful community living . . .' There would be a director of corrections and the administrative framework closely resembles the federal prison plan.

"Regional detention facilities would be designed primarily to detain, train and treat FIRST offenders, and will classify with respect to their potential for rehabilitation. Those convicted of felonies who represent a peril to the community would continue to be confined under maximum security at Parchman.

"The Mississippi Gulf Coast", said Riley, "is responsible for 20 to 25 percent of the prison population at Parchman. We do not like the quality of Parchman rehabilitation and the 'graduates' Parchman returns to the communities, not only on the Coast but throughout Mississippi.

"Rehabilitation," said Riley, "begins in the community. It requires that all community resources - vocational training, religion, social and divic exposure, work release programs - all be utilized to insure that the offender becomes a responsible and contributing member of society.

"The Parchman process is irreconcilable with human dignity and morality. We cannot afford the luxury of continuing to pour unlimited funds into the proverbial ratholes of Mississippi's 'Attica'. On the other hand, acceptance of the essential ingredients of House Bill 1250 will make available a federal grant to support this correctional program, which will make local funding minimal."

Riley noted that authorities have advised him that if the provisions of House Bill 1250 are approved and the bill passed, federal funds up to 90 percent will be available with only 10 percent of the funds to be supplied locally.

"The Miss. Coast Crime Comm.," said Riley, "would urge all citizens and the legislators to support this proposed correctional legislation, which already has gained the support of a highly knowledgeable and professional cross section of concerned agencies and individuals in the state."

gambling — a question of morals or money?

The governor has spoken out against legalized horse racing in the state. A Coast mayor has spoken out in favor of it.

Both are backed by large segments of the state's population and the issue has been split, typically, into two camps. Both factions proffer strong arguments in support of their contentions.

From an objective point of view, it would seem that the governor's stand is based on a religiously oriented principle, certainly admirable albeit somewhat idealistic in concept.

The mayor's position, held by a large percentage of Coast business people, is motivated by the cold facts of economics. A legalized horse or dog racing track in the Gulf Coast area is needed to revitalize a flagging tourist trade, they say, as well as to meet the competition of tracks in neighboring states. A view that is somewhat crass, one may argue; however, money is still one of the most necessary of commodities for survival.

The anti-racing camp maintains that such a facility would open the door to underworld elements and lead to a rise in crime. Let's examine some facts.

Past history proves that, human nature being what it is, there are those who are going to drink, gamble and engage in other "pleasurable" pursuits no matter what the law says.

Organized crime has probably never flourished so openly and destructively in this country as during prohibition. Making drinking illegal didn't stem the tide any more than making it legal. Laws against drinking and the sale of liquor in Mississippi so many years allowed bootleggers and illicit stills to flourish, tax free.

Although liquor is now legal in Harrison and Hancock counties, bootleggers are still operating, admittedly in much smaller numbers. Gambling has never been legal in Mississippi, but that fact didn't deter the many club owners the width of the coast years ago who openly ran gambling casinos to which tourists flocked in astounding numbers.

Gambling is still in full sway on the coast. Although law enforcement officials don't like to admit it, dog fights and cock fights are plentiful in Harrison county and organized clubs conduct gambling operations in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

One such operation, run by a national service club in the Bay, offers members and guests cards, horse race betting and football pools. City officials and the police are well aware of the situation as the membership roster includes a city commissioner, a policeman, an elected county official as well as a number of prominent businessmen. They're all aware that it's illegal, yet nothing is done to stop it.

The governor's fears that legislation legalizing race tracks would open the state to gambling are, however commendable, too late. Gambling is here to stay.

Legalizing it would at least fill the state and county coffers . . . additional revenue which is sorely needed at both the state and local levels.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

When we were growing up we lived in the original oil country, within twelve miles of the famous Drake oil well, the first one ever drilled. The oil was brought down Oil Creek in wooden barrels, loaded on horse-drawn wagons, to a little refinery five miles from our home, and in the following years the first automobiles in our town had their gasoline from the refinery delivered to 100-gallon tanks buried in the yards- - top-run gasoline, like today's aviation fuel, at five cents per gallon! Later, this was raised to seven cents a gallon, and the dozen car-owners in town complained that they were being gouged.

By that time, dozens of little wells had been drilled all over the county; five or six of these would be hooked up to one gas engine by long iron rods linked together, and we can still remember lying in bed in the silence of the country night and listening to the putt-putting of the engines near and far away as they pulled the rods that pumped oil from the wells all about us.

It was a beautiful time to live in! Nobody made much money — or spent much, either! Father was head of an important department of the local Standard Oil Co. but we doubt if his salary was ever more than five thousand a year, yet he owned a very nice home and the first Olds four-cylinder car in the county, and we lived very well indeed. Mother always sent me on the first of the month with money to pay the butcher and the grocer for the current bill, and he always gave us a nice piece of bologna or a small bag of candy for a "treat". We had a nice vegetable garden and a dozen fruit trees, and never will we forget the delicious "Mexican" corn and the red cherries and Concord grapes.

In addition to the oil glumphing unceasingly into the small tanks at a thousand farms, there was natural gas, so plentiful that many folks burned huge torches at their front gates day and night, never turning them off, just to get rid of the surplus gas. We heated our home with gas, turning it on the first chill day of Fall and never touching it again until it was turned off in the late Spring. Carbon electric arc-lights kept our streets bright at night. In those early days, so many oil companies were formed that there was a fullscale stock exchange operating in our town.

There was no fuel shortage in those days. This was before the gushers were brought in in Texas, but through all of western Pennsylvania many hundreds of small oilwells were pumping from one to twenty barrels of crude oil daily; oil millionaires soon became as common as potatoes, and many new products based on oil soon were on the market.

All that is gone now. But we never will forget the putt-putting of those gas engine pumpers echoing far and near in the stillness of the night.

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:

February 15, will mark the first anniversary of the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc. We are therefore writing this letter to thank the kind, concerned citizens of Hancock County who helped us make it through this difficult first year.

While progress has been slower than we would like it to be, we still can truthfully say that we have made great strides. We have paid particular attention to informing the public that we are now an integral part of the community. In that respect we relied heavily on publicity and the newspapers have been especially responsive. The Sea Coast Echo and its staff could not have been more receptive to our cause. We shall be forever grateful. Our gratitude too goes to the humanitarians in other counties, those in Louisiana, and of course, the generous people of New Orleans.

We are quite proud of the gains we have made in one short year, and we pledge ourselves, with God's help and the cooperation of the citizens and the governing officials, to help with the area's animal control problem to a greater degree in the years to come.

Local VA News

BY
Chester L. Curvey

This week's subject will be on compensation, what it is and who is entitled to compensation.

Compensation is a monthly payment made to a veteran because of a Service connected disability. Payments range from a low of 10 percent disability, paying $28 per month, to a high of 100 percent, in multiples of ten, paying $495 per month for a single veteran. Dependents are included in the compensation payment when the disability is rated 50 percent or higher. Certain serious disabilities are given special monthly rates over $495 and these are called statutory award and pay $47 per month. The very maximum that a veteran can draw is $1232 per month, including Aid and Attendance.

Veterans who have been awarded disability severance pay or lump sum re-adjustment pay for disability should, immediately upon being discharged from active duty, file a claim for disability compensation from the Veterans Administration. The reason for this is that the severance pay or lump sum payment is offset by the amount of compensation that would have been paid, had compensation been paid in lieu of severance or lump sum pay. The offset of this money will not start until the claim is received by the Veterans Administration. Compensation for a disability other than the disability for which severance pay was received is payable without offset.

Compensation will not be paid when willful misconduct is in evidence. Willful misconduct means an act involving conscious wrong doing or a known prohibited action. The drinking of alcohol in itself does not constitute willful misconduct, but if in the drinking of the alcohol, intoxication results in proximately and immediately in death or disability, that would be considered willful misconduct and no compensation would be paid. Organic diseases resulting from the chronic use of alcohol are not considered misconduct.

The frequent and progressive use of drugs, to the point of addiction will be considered willful misconduct. An overdose of drugs resulting in immediate disability or death is considered willful misconduct and no compensation is payable.

A veteran who was discharged or retired from the Military Service, who discovers a reoccurrence of a disability or a disabling illness, for which he received medical treatment while in the service, should immediately file a claim for a service connected disability.

There are certain chronic and tropical diseases for which service connection may be granted, which were not diagnosed during service, if a claim is submitted within six months or a year after discharge, with the substantiating medical evidence.

Keep this in mind, it is practically impossible to get a claim approved for a service connected disability, 20 years after discharge. In almost all cases the veteran has forgotten when, where and by whom he was treated or any one who might have had any knowledge that could be beneficial to him in proving the claim.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

A BOOST FOR VETERANS

"I want you to get rid of this Veterans Day thing you folks up in Washington pushed off on us," an American Legion elder statesman told me in Hattiesburg recently. "Now, I ask you, what war ever ended on the fourth Monday in October?"

That jaunty veteran was expressing considerable displeasure over a decision made in 1968 to change Veterans Day from the traditional November 11 setting to the fourth Monday in October. He was offended — and rightly so — that Congress, in all its wisdom, rearranged our holiday schedule to suit themselves.

That gentleman is not alone in his displeasure, either. Thirty-one state legislatures have adopted resolutions declaring November 11 as the proper day to honor veterans.

And President Nixon, in a special message to Congress two weeks ago, called for Congressional legislation to restore November 11 as the day for honoring veterans. If Congress takes the bull by the horns and heeds the advice of millions of Americans, we will soon honor the President's proposal.

Beyond that proposal, President Nixon also said he will support an 8 per cent boost in payments to veterans under the GI education program and a revised pension plan with regular cost-of-living increases.

Quite frankly, in recent years there has been a lot of talk about giving help to the veterans - but in many instances the results have been quite questionable. It's time for us to make some tangible provisions in areas where veterans really need help.

There will be a request for $13.6 billion in spending for veterans' benefits in fiscal 1975, which begins July 1. That's an increase of $400 million over the current fiscal year and an increase of $5.9 billion since 1969.

There are 2.1 million veterans currently receiving GI education benefits. The Veterans Administration estimates that there will be 1.9 million in the next fiscal year.

An unmarried veteran now in school receives $220 a month. This figure would go up to $237.60 under the President's proposal.

In the area of pension reform for veterans, the President suggested that VA pensioners should have "some regularized way of receiving cost-of-living adjustments in VA pension payments tied to the automatic increases now available to Social Security recipients."

The pensions should also provide the neediest pensioners with additional income so that they do not receive less total income than adult welfare recipients under the Social Security Act.

I particularly agreed with the assertion that a family's total income should be considered in determining the amount of pension needed. Veterans and widows should be treated equally with regard to income and pension payments.

There are, of course, many things to consider as we look at these proposals in Congress. Some of my colleagues are suggesting, for example, that reforms are needed to assure veterans in all states equal educational opportunities for equal military service.

There is much to be done for our veterans, and this legislation at least is a step in the right direction.

Chamber Report

By Sylvia McComiskey
Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Manager

The Commuter Service drive is now in the hands of the Mississippi Coast Transit Authority for development in the technical area. We will receive an assessment of progress from MCTA in 30 days and will decide at that time if we need to call in further assistance to get this service re-instituted. In the meantime, we again ask any commuters who have not done so, to fill out an inquiry form (available by writing or calling the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce). These forms are vital for the success of this project.

We would appreciate a response from some of the recipients of the oak seedlings from the Friendship Oak, distributed from our office December 21, on the condition of your trees. Mr. Jim Buck Ross, State Commissioner of Agriculture, went to a great deal of effort to give these trees to the Gulf Coast (10,000 were distributed in Hancock County alone) and we would like to be able to inform him of their survival and progress.

We would like to salute the Bay-Waveland Humane Society on their upcoming first anniversary. This organization will be a year old February 15. They service Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the County as well and, if new laws now pending in the Legislature are passed in this session, they will be able to give more thorough service to the entire county. Everyone should appreciate the efforts of this group. Congratulations on a most active and productive year.

Home Makers Notes

By Norine Barnes,
Hancock County Home Economist

FAMILY LIVING OUTLOOK 1974

The family spending plan plan should be reconsidered to meet the economic and energy crisis. Adjustments must be made as price relationships change.

Food expenses appear likely to rise moderately, reflecting both greater comsumption and higher prices.

Disposable income is expected to be higher, and the percentage of income spent on food may remain about the sam as in 1973. The estimated share of income spent on food increased to 15.9 percent of disposable income in 1973.

The increase in grocery prices may be slow during the first half of 1974. A modest rising trend seems likely for the first quarter due to smaller meat supplies. Meat may join with other food categories in pushing up the food price index. The rate of price increase is expected to be moderate compared with 1973. A degree of uncertainty surrounds the food supply-demand situation this year. Price predictions are exteemely tentuous.

Clothing accounted for an average of $329 per person in 1973. This was $31 higher than in 1972. The average person will spend the same amount on clothing in 1974 us he did in 1973. However, you can expect some increase in retail price levels for clothing in 1974.

Transportation costs will be up. Housing interest rates should be slightly lower by the end of 1974.

The energy crisis will affect every family. It will mean inconvenience and discomfort. Unfortunately, it will mean a loss of income for many people.

Family members must be alerted to the need for better management. Look for ways to reduce energy consumption. Be careful in the selection and use of holdhold equipment and automobiles. Be infromed about energy — saving improvements of housing. Family members will need to work together in adjusting the family budget to rising prices and changing needs.

Library Lore

The wide-eyed cluster of tots enthralled by tales from their story-teller appear oblivious to the fact that they're sitting on the floor. Of course, three to five year-olds can make themselves comfortable almost anywhere, but it's due to lack of space in your library that these seating arrangements are necessary.

Each Friday at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. P. J. Benvenutti reads and or tells stories to all pre-school age children who appear at City-County Memorial at this hour. And appear they do! In ever increasing numbers, so many that it recently became necessary to store a vast number of volumes needed by the staff to make more room for the youngsters.

Perhaps this free story period accounts for the fact that so many young children take advantage of their own room. This introduction to literature apparently whets their appetite for books.

Surprisingly large numbers have visited this attractive niche presided over by Mildred Means, known to contemporaries as 'Sis' and sometimes as 'Miss Sis' to the little ones. Grace Rhodes is her capable assistant, taking over completely when Sis opens the branch library in Waveland on Mondays and Fridays.

Children not only check out books but also records suitable for varied age groups. Walls of this cozy room are effectively decorated with sketches and paintings done by young patrons of the library.

PASS CHRISTIAN PARTICIPANT— Mrs. Dorothy Warner, Pass Christian, senior elementary education major at the University of Southern Mississippi, is engaged in a one-to-one reading tutoring program, conducted in the College of Education and Psychology. Area youngsters in need of special reading instruction are beneficiaries. Dorothy is the wife of Edward Warner and her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Travis A. Begue, all of Pass Christian.

Reading is the key for knowledge

An 18th century English author and lexicographer, one Samuel Johnson, once said that the foundations of knowledge must be laid by reading.

Today, laboring in the same vineyards, a group of faculty and students at the University of Southern Mississippi strive to help children lay firm foundations through the improvement of their reading ability.

A special project which involves one-to-one tutoring in reading, administered by the Reading Center and coordinated by Dr. Eleanor Noble has about 50 elementary school children enrolled.

The program goals are twofold: to extend teaching experiences for senior level elementary education university students, and to make the reading tutoring services available to elementary school children in Hattiesburg and the surrounding area.

Mrs. Pat Foley, Hattiesburg; Mrs. Sue McKenzie, Ocean Springs, and Mrs. Sondra Kutzman, Petal, all doctoral students, assist Dr. Noble.

Each USM student-tutor learns to identify reading levels, skills and difficulties of the tutored child. Appropriate materials and techniques for instruction are selected by the tutor according to the individual child's needs and interests.

Current materials, methods and special problems are discussed in weekly seminars, so that the university tutors will develop useful, important skills for competency in teaching reading. This practicum course is one of the final steps in elementary teacher preparation, following two or more courses in theory and practices in reading instruction.

For the elementary school children, the program is an unusual opportunity to receive completely individualized reading instruction. At the conclusion of each reading clinic session, parents receive a progress report through a parent-tutor conference.

HNC Beta Club gets new slate of officers

Hancock North Central Beta Club inducted 18 new members at a recent meeting. Officers elected were Mary Necaise, president; Vanessa Hill, vice-president; Deborah Franklin, secretary; Barbara Reeves, treasurer; and Bonnie Lee, reporter. New members were installed before old members, administration and sponsors in the library of the school.

Following the ceremony, the principal, J. A. O'Neal, congratulated the students on their selection as members of the Beta Club.

New members include Patricia Arcement, Mildred Carroll, Pam Cuevas, Keith Dossett, Leroy Ferguson, Linda Fountain, Dinah Garretti, Pam Green, Kathy Ladner, Melanie Lenfant, Sharon Mitchell, Carol Moran, Durenda Necaise, Norman Rester, Lillian Thompson, Theresa Wilkenson, Randy Cuevas, and Cheryl Johnson.

The Beta Club is a leadership and achievement organization. Among this year's projects are candy sales to finance a trip to the State Convention in Jackson on February 1-3, donations to the Association for Retarded Children's Christmas fund, and a school-wide drive to send Christmas presents to the State Mental Hospital. The Club has also made arrangements to donate shrubbery to the school as a campus beautification project. Sponsors are Mrs. Melinda Young and Mrs. Carolyn Leonard.

Rev. Hague to leave Bay

Rev. Ronnie Hague, minister of music and youth at First Baptist Church, 141 Main Street, submitted his resignation at the Sunday morning service, January 13. His tenure of service will terminate February 15 at which time he will seek to continue his training.

Since his coming to the Bay St. Louis Church January 11, 1970, Rev. Hague has been in charge of the youth program. Six retreats were held in various parts of the State and during the summer of 1972, the youth choir went on a three-state tour. Many other functions including Youth Week, Youth services, convention trips, Evangelistic campaigns, royal ambassador work and vacation bible schools were under the leadership of Rev. Hague as well as the church music program.

Rev. Hague was named to the Outstanding Young Men of America in 1973, and served as youth chairman in the 1973 James Robison Crusade. He has also led music in revivals in the Gulf Coast area.

At present he is working with his sister from Hattiesburg toward the formation of "Absolute Surrender," a brother-sister concert team and they anticipate a concert tour this summer.

The Church will honor Rev. Hague with a farewell fellowship following the 8 p.m. service Sunday, February 10. The public is invited.

Horticulture workshop is open to public

A horticulture and landscape workshop, sponsored by the Extension County Agent in Bay St. Louis is scheduled for Feb. 12 in the county agriculture building on Necaise St.

An impressive group of authorities in the field will discuss various aspects of home gardening, landscaping and plant care at the workshop which is open to the general public free of charge, county agent John Smith said.

The roster of speakers will include Dr. Milo Burnham, state horticulturist who will discuss urban home gardening; Dr. Donald Blassingame, plant pathologist, diseases of ornamentals and shrubs; Terry Welbourne, area horticulturist, to discuss landscape maintenance.

Also participating in the three-hour session are Dr. James H. Cochran, entomologist, whose topic is insect controls, and Dr. Hiram Palmertree, agronomist who will discuss lawn care and maintenance.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. in the agriculture building auditorium and will end at noon. Refreshments will be served at a break period, through the courtesy of the Hancock Bank.

Adult driver ed starts at Bay HI

An Adult Driver Education course will begin February 11 at 4 p.m. at the Bay Senior High School. Participants are reminded to bring their social security card, birth certificate and $10 fee.

A few vacancies are available in the course and registrants may call Robert Magee, at 467-8611 for further information.

NEDT program starts at CEHS

Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian will administer the National Educational Development Tests, a testing program that helps professional educators, parents and students plan together for the educational and vocational future of the students.

June B. Coffer, CEHS director of guidance, says that the NEDT Program is being used because it will give the school the type of information it needs to help the students make realistic decisions. "The NEDT will help us to help the student plan wisely for his future education and for his future career.

"The program will reveal how well the students can apply the skills they have acquired since entering school. It will help us recognize the strengths in each student's educational development and, at the same time, will pinpoint weaknesses. This information will enable us to know how we can help a particular student while he is still in school, and will guide us in improving our program so that other youngsters can be helped earlier in their education."

NEDT tests will be administered Feb. 19 at CEHS.

From the Mayor's desk

STEVE SAUCIER
PASS CHRISTIAN MAYOR

The City of Pass Christian and indeed all of this and of the County is about to embark on a period of growth, progress and prosperity. No matter what we do, we cannot stop it. The State of Miss. is now looked upon in a more favorable light - the Gulf Coast as the most favorable.

Our choice is not whether to grow, but how to grow.

We can have orderly progress and everyone will benefit. We can all lose with disorder.

I call upon each one of you to begin to think about what is in our future. A few public officials can not and should not steer the course alone. It takes a little effort from everyone. My point is, please get involved! Please care!

If you get around to the different Civic Clubs, the Service organizations, you see the same few people continuously showing up. Where are the rest of you? Do you just NOT care about the kids so that's why you don't go to P.T.A. meetings or drug abuse programs? Do you feel you want no part of helping determine the course we take tomorrow?

We must get to work and cure this "acute apathy" which has us in its grip.

This great country, like a building is not built from the top down - but from the foundation UP - Please get involved in your community.

This week in Gulfport there was a tragic accident involving children boarding a school bus. Please remember that the kids are out before daylight traveling to school, on bicycles, on foot and catching buses - Be extra cautious and especially careful around school buses.

In the next week or 10 days, we will begin smoke testing our sewer system. A bright yellow smoke may be seen in the area of work. If your house gets filled with smoke you have a problem. But don't worry about the smoke itself - it's completely harmless. The smoke testing is part of the first phase of our Sewer improvement program.

Next week we will say more about that sewer improvement and the pollution problem that the Coast is faced with.

Bay men on Crime Comm. board

The Mississippi Coast Crime Commission held its third annual meeting at the Mississippi Power Company Auditorium January 23.

Members and guests from all three Coast counties served by the Commission were in attendance, and officers and members of the Board were elected for the current year.

Gordon L. Redd was elected president of the Commission, succeeding Robert O. Rasch, who had served as president for the past three years. Jolly P. McCarty of Pascagoula was elected vice president, and O. K. Lion, vice president and cashier of Hancock Bank was re-elected to the office of secretary-treasurer.

Re-elected to serve three years terms on the Board of Directors were Cummings H. McCall and William F. Dukes, of Gulfport. Also elected to the Board for three year terms were Charles L. Brueck and Dr. Clarence Reaver also of Gulfport, Rev. Harold O. Martin, Pascagoula, and Ames Kergosien of Bay St. Louis.

At a Special meeting of the Board of Directors, Lavon Nettles of Ocean Springs, and James Ginn of Bay St. Louis, were elected to fill unexpired terms of two years, and Adolf Uram was elected to a one year term.

In his report to the membership, Rasch reviewed the activities of the Crime Commission during the past year, citing the Commission's continuing participation in advocating a mandatory unit system of county governments; citing conflicts of interests of certain legislators and other public officials; publication of the MCCC newsletter, the "SPOTLIGHT"; recommended reform in the bail bond system; the continued administration of the Tip (Turn In A Pusher) Program; and the continuing liaison with public officials and organizations to improve the administration and efficiency of government.

Loans Now Available

FHA is now receiving applications for Business and Industrial loans in Hancock County, FHA Acting County Supervisor Lamar C. Madison announced today. Mr. Madison stated that eligible loan purposes concluded the purchase of land, construction of building, purchase of machinery and equipment for a new or expanding industry and that funds were also available for working capitol.

He also stated that these loans would be made by private lenders, such as banks, and would be guaranteed by FHA up to 90 percent. The first step in seeking FHA assistance is to file a letter of preapplication to the county office which is located at 503 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520.

WAVELAND VOLUNTEER FIREMEN battled a brush fire Tuesday afternoon after shifting winds caused the fire to threaten the trailer home of Milton Bordeaux in the Aloha Trailer Park at 706 Spanish Trail. The fire department answered the call about 3:30 p.m. and kept a close watch on the blaze until the wind fed fire could be contained.

Energy-saving tips told to Senior citizens meet

"The average home could save a minimum of 10 percent on its electrical bill each month if the correct procedures were followed," David Seibert, Sales representative of the Mississippi Power Company in Gulfport, told the Long Beach Senior Citizens club this week.

The Power spokesman assured the Older Americans they would have just as good service and cut their bills considerably if they followed some of the tips he offered them at their weekly session in the Knights of Columbus Hall at 500 East 2nd street.

Seibert, who was introduced by President Harold Tinnell, suggested the following economy tips:

— Don't stack food next to each other. Space it out to keep the air circulating.

— Give your own refrigerator a test. Place half of a dollar bill inside the front door. If you can slide it out from the closed door you have a leakage and need a new gasket.

— Change or wash your air conditioner filter at least once a month.

— Use pots or pans that fit the burner when cooking. You are being wasteful using the wrong size.

— Make sure you have full loads when using the washing machine or the dryer.

— Keep electric switches cut off when not being used.

— Adequate insulation and weather proofing will help reduce costs.

— Heavy insulated drapes (or a shade) will be an economy and a convenience for a picture window.

— Keep drapes closed during winter time and at nights.

And as a safety precaution, Seibert warned the Senior Citizens:

— Unplug your TV set during electrical storms.

— Check appliances to see if they are frayed or peeled off. This could cause fires.

— And keep electrical wires safely out of the way to save some person from falling or tripping over them.

Before the safety-first tips were offered, Seibert presented a 20-minute animated, color sound-picture telling of the history of electricity.

The Lions Club of Gulfport donated twenty complimentary tickets to the Long Beach Older American group for their big Holiday Hiprodome Circus to be presented in the Gulfport East Junior high school auditorium, Tuesday night, Feb. 26, at 8 PM.

Mrs. Lucy Dessommes, coordinator for the group, announced that a knitting class has started under the direction of Mrs. Kathy Gray, formerly of London, England. A quilting class, under the direction of Mrs. Leona Leggett and Mrs. June Downey, has gotten underway. The students are making two quilts which will be raffled off in the spring. The proceeds will go to the club, hopefully for a coming bus tour. An Artex painting class has started under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Hatem and Mrs. Merlyn Castiglia. Similar classes are being held also in ceramics, sewing and bridge.

Mrs. Carol Wehunt has been named an assistant to be in charge of Attendance records.

On Sunday afternoon, Feb. 10, at 2:30, the Senior Citizens will stage their first open "Song fest" at Saint Patrick's Episcopal church in Long Beach. All the clergy of the city and their families are invited to be special guests. The public is invited to the free event. Mrs. Byrd Cassibry will direct the choral group. The meeting Feb. 12, will feature a well-known Mississippi artist, Mrs. Mildred Harrison, who will exhibit some of her oil paintings.

Mrs. Harrison will show different techniques and stages of paintings on canvas, wood and glass. The public is invited to this demonstration, which will start at 1 pm. The final meeting on Feb. 19 will be games at the VFW Hall on East Railroad street. The usual meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 26, has been cancelled because of Mardi Gras.

What Would You Like To Know About Your City?

Members of the Bay St. Louis City Council have expressed a desire for local citizens to become better informed of the affairs of their community and the workings of their city government.

Questions concerning the tax structure or assessments, city operating costs, areas of income and disbursement of funds and any other of a reasonable nature will be answered by council members in a new series starting this week in the Echo.

In cooperation with the city council, the Echo will publish each week a questionnaire which can be clipped out and mailed or brought in person to City Hall. Questions submitted will be answered the following week and as much information as possible on the subject will be supplied by whichever council member appropriate. While the council would prefer that the correspondant identify himself, names are not necessary and any question of a reasonable nature will be answered.

Readers are reminded that questionnaires must be submitted to City Hall, not the Echo.

QUESTION:
One of our citizens has asked for a copy of the State law and city ordinance governing bond issues and indebtedness.

ANSWER:
In answer to this inquiry I would like to state that all municipal, county, school and road district or any other district bond issues are governed by State law and, therefore, no city ordinance exists covering this matter.

It would, of course, be impossible for me to submit to the Echo a copy of that section of the state law dealing with the validation and issuance of public bonds. However, I have made a copy of Chapter 13, Mississippi Code of 1972, Annotated, and this is being mailed to the party who made the request.

If there are any specific questions any citizen would like to know about this matter of bond issues I will be glad to accept the inquiry and would direct it to the city attorney for his attention.

Very sincerely,
Warren Carver, Mayor.

Waveland lead applicant in 201 area planning study

The Bay city council voted unanimously Monday on a resolution naming the city of Waveland, Miss. as the lead applicant in any 201 area planning study. The 201 study is a prerequisite of the federal Environmental Protection Agency for funding of any sewage treatment facility. The cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland along with the county were informed last month that new state and federal agency guidelines would require agreement by the three bodies on one applicant for a regional study. The council forwarded a copy of its resolution to the county board of supervisors and requested that it concur with its action.

In a related matter, Mayor Warren Carver asked to have the council minutes reflect that he was not in favor of accepting the engineering firm of Burk & Associates to perform engineering studies for the city for any 201 study, and was only signing the contract with the firm because a majority of the council had voted to retain Burk. The comment came after council member Lucien Kidd presented signed copies of the city's contract with Burk & Associates and asked that it be made a part of the board's minutes.

In other action the council voted to extend its insurance coverage with Hancock Insurance Agency against theft--increasing its protection from $5,000 to $20,000 for the months of January, February, March, July, August, and September. These months represented the peak times for deposits, according to Finance Commissioner Clarence Ladner.

The council took a negative view to several requests from Fire Chief Richard Fayard for items that the council said exceeded the department's budget for the current year.

Fayard saying that the department was requesting "nothing foolish" asked that the council consider giving a 1971 Chevrolet police car to his department instead of selling it at bid for use as an official fire department automobile. Fayard said that presently all his department has for transportation is an open jeep and that the auto could be used to make inspections and for long trips outside the city. The auto needs to have a new motor, he said, and could be repaired for around $300.

Mayor Carver said that he thought the city would come out better if they continued to pay mileage to the firemen and they used their own cars.

"With costs going up, we've got to watch our budget on these things," Carver said. "Give it more study."

The council also turned down a request by Fayard to finish payments on a television, carpeting and furniture purchased by the department and took under consideration a request to purchase "walkie talkies" so that the department could receive a Class 7 fire rating.

Councilman Clarence Ladner and Mayor Carver said that before any more expense was incurred by the city toward obtaining a lower fire rating they would like to have written assurance of what the rating bureau requires.

"We just can't keep adding and adding on to our costs and continue not to get our Class 7 rating," Ladner said. "We'd like to know definitely by the bureau just what else is going to be required."

—In other matters the council moved and accepted a change in the city ordinance increasing the fee charged for clearing a lot not to exceed $300 for each cleaning and not to exceed twice a year.

—agreed to advertise for bids for exterior repair work to City Hall.

—Voted 2-1 to reappoint Robert Hamilton to another five year term on the city school board.

Recreation site planned for beach

The idea for a public beach and water recreation facility in Bay St. Louis, germinated at a meeting last week, bore fruit Monday night as city and county officials met with community leaders in Bay city hall.

The facility, to be located at the foot of Ulman Ave. and the beach, would provide picnic tables, grills, rest rooms and a swimming area and would be designed to allow for later expansion for a small craft marina and fishing pier.

County supervisors Jerry Ladner, James Travirca and Oscar Peterson told the 20 or so persons attending the meeting that they would be agreeable to using as base funds $30,000 recently allocated for a pier at that site.

Bay mayor Warren Carver suggested approaching the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for additional funding. Other areas to be explored for assistance in planning and funding included the Gulf Regional Planning Commission and various state agencies, with the Planning and Zoning Commission to initiate the appeals.

Travirca, in whose beat the site lies, said as soon as weather permits he would put equipment on the beach for preliminary cleaning and clearing of old pilings and was offered assistance by beat one supervisor Ladner.

Port and Harbor director Wilson Webre informed the group that in 1966 the Chamber of Commerce had begun a hurricane protection study of the Hancock county beach. Chamber officials had been assured at that time of approximately 70 percent federal funding for a resulting project, he said. Webre suggested a re-enactment of the study as another possible financial source.

Monday's meeting came as a result of a Jan. 30 meeting called by Victor Franckiewicz, Jr., a student of city planning at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Psychologist conducts workshop

Dr. Ray Coxe, consultant psychologist for the Coastal Mental Health Center in Gulfport, recently conducted a day-long workshop for staffs of the Area-wide Model Project and the Hancock County Welfare Dept. The workshop was geared to provide an in-depth look at inter-relationships with elderly clients, setting goals and methodology used in attaining goals.

Mrs. Rudite Klienman, Clinical Psychologist, Coastal Mental Health, assisted with the sessions. The first period was conducted at the Welfare Department offices and the afternoon classes reconvened at Valena C. Jones Senior Center. This portion divided participants into activity groups involving role-playing and direct attempts to utilize the information offered earlier in the day. The sessions closed with a written evaluation of the program by each individual for the purpose of influencing future planning of such workshops.

State Arts Festival auditions slated for February

Auditions for the popular Coffeehouse—an annual attraction of the Mississippi Arts Festival which draws hundreds of talented performers and enthusiastic audiences—will be held in February, it was announced today.

According to chairmen of the Coffeehouse entertainment, the auditions will be held three Sunday afternoons in February plus one night during the week. The auditions will be held at the Livingston Park Clubhouse, located near the Jackson Zoo, on February 10, 17, and 24, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. On Thursday, February 7, auditions will be held at the same location from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Mrs. Benny G. Smith, chairman of the entertainment committee, said that any musical group may enter the competition. Soul," classical, country, pop, soloist or group—all may audition, and all may get a chance to appear in the Coffeehouse during Festival Week.

Mrs. Smith said the auditions would be handled on a first come, first serve basis, and that the committee would not make reservations. She also said a panel of five judges, who will be nameless until after the selections are completed, will be present to judge the musicians.

In the past years, the interest in the Festival's Coffeehouse has continued to grow. According to Mrs. Smith, the Coffeehouse is truly a showcase for Mississippi talent, offering musicians from all over the state a chance to perform before live audiences.

In addition, prizes are awarded the winning performers during Festival week. This year's Coffeehouse winners will receive a recording session from North American Recording Corporation plus the services of FRASCO Entertainment.

For the auditions at Livingston Park Clubhouse, the group or soloist should prepare two musical numbers. A piano and a microphone will be provided by the entertainment committee members, and a photographer will be available to shoot publicity pictures of the performers. Prints will be made for a nominal fee.

According to the Coffeehouse Chairman, the Coffeehouse itself will take place in a different spot this year. The Tent, which usually housed art exhibits, will this year be the lively scene of the Coffeehouse. The price of admission will remain fifty cents, and this year's theme will be "The Jukebox."

Anyone wishing to know more information about the Coffeehouse auditions may contact Chairman Mrs. Benny Smith at 6151 Waverly Drive in Jackson or Mrs. Jim Sones at 230 Maywood Circle in Jackson. Mrs. Sones is co-chairman of the event, as well as Mrs. Lee M. West, Jr. These hard-working ladies urge anyone interested to write or call them for additional information.

"Otherwise," says Mrs. Smith, "We'll see you then at the auditions where plenty of fun will be in store for us all."

developers to install their own sewer systems now.

Warner said the city commissioner told him that the waste water coming from the pond was relatively pure, but the ultimate pollution in the bayou is caused by algae from the oxidation pond absorbing oxygen from the bayou water.

Bay St. Louis is planning to tie into the Waveland system, Warner was told, but must have authorization from Washington officials to do so.

Kellar assured the two groups that the county engineering firm had initiated a preliminary 201 study for a proposed sewer system, as had the Bay firm.

Warner was accompanied to the meeting by YAP officers Andy Lagarde, David Treutel, John Lassere and Br. Pierre St. Pierre, president of the school.

A suggestion from Br. Pierre that, if the waste water is so pure as reported, it be diverted directly into the Gulf went unheeded.

Beat five supervisor James Travirca suggested that the complainants file a court injunction to halt any further work on the Waveland sewer plant in an effort to force action by the Air and Water Pollution Control Comm.

Board attorney Robert Genin offered to investigate legal procedures for such a step.

After further discussion a motion was passed by the board to schedule a meeting on the matter with the county board, city councils and engineers from Bay St. Louis and Waveland, as well as the County Planning Comm. and the A&WPC Comm. The meeting was set for Feb. 12, 7 p.m. in the main court room at the court house.

Box number a must for rural mail

Postmaster J.R. Shadoin today urged all rural route customers served by the Bay St. Louis post office to use box numbers as part of their return addresses to assure faster, more efficient mail deliveries from their correspondents.

"Although box numbers are an integral part of most rural route addresses, it has recently become the practice of many customers to omit this element. This practice causes the mail to be returned to the sender because of insufficient address. It has also been cited by publishers and large mailers as one of the major causes of duplicate mailings to rural customers.

"These duplicate mailings hurt everyone," Shadoin continued, "they cost the the big mailers in dollars and cents, and because they flood the stream of mail, everyone's mail is slowed."

The box number is as important to the rural address as the house number is to the street address. Unless rural addresses contain both the box and the route number it is incomplete and subject to return to the sender, he concluded.

JAQUILLARD BIRTHDAYS

Buffy Rene and Cissy Rene Jaquillard celebrated their fourth and second birthdays Sunday, February 3, with a party at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jaquillard, Gladstone Street.

Raggedy Ann and Andy was the theme carried out in the decorations, tablecloth and on the cake.

Bay Rotary hears plans for new Park

Tourism on the Mississippi Gulf Coast will benefit from the new Gulf Islands National Seashore Park, according to Bill Westphal, naturalist for the National Park Service.

Westphal's comments came during a lecture and slide presentation at the regular meeting of the Bay Rotary Club, Wednesday, January 30.

Islands included in the National Park area will offer facilities for boat docking and camping among its services for handling visitors. Petit Bois, Horn, and Ship Islands are included in the National Park.

Fort Massachusetts will be the top attraction on Ship Island and restoration of the fort is now being planned, according to Westphal. Tours of the fort will be conducted by National Park Rangers starting this spring and continuing into the fall.

Senior citizens hear art lecture

"Mississippi is one of the best states in the country to find natural colored sand for the ancient Indian sand-art," Mrs. Elmo Nolan of Pass Christian, told the Long Beach Senior Citizens club this week.

The housewife-artist gave a demonstration as she beautifully designed several bottles of various colored sand at the Older Americans weekly club meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 500 East 2nd street. Mrs. Nolan was introduced by club president Harold Tinnell.

Contrary to popular belief, the various colored sands seen in the artistic bottles has not been artifically dyed. It is a natural colored sugary powdered substance, most times found from 75 to 100 feet below the surface. Mrs. Nolan said at least 35 different colored sands are found in Mississippi. Only the state of Alabama has been known to produce more different colored sands. Geologists have discovered at least 100 different shades of colored sand throughout the country.

The Indian Sand art is an ancient one and hard to teach to groups. Mrs. Nolan says the best way to teach it to others is to have one pupil at a time. She has been doing this at her home for the last five years and is so skilled in this art that she has been asked to give lecture-demonstrations around the country.

The artists who work with the colored sand generally follow tips on where new finds have been located. And they think nothing of going hundreds of miles to get a few precious scoops of a new variety. Like a normal tourist who romps on the Gulf Coast beaches, she plays with sand-with one difference. Hers is a professional touch done with skill and know-how.

Refreshments were furnished by the Long Beach Homemakers. Hostesses who aided Coordinator Mrs. Lucy Dessommes were Mrs. Kathy Gray and Mrs. Teresa Holley.

The club, under the direction of Vice-President H.H. Harvey, has started a new diet-reducing program which they have officially called, "The Slim-Trims." The Senior Citizens will give their first free public "song-fest", a 45-minute program of old songs, at the Saint Patrick's Episcopal church in Long Beach, Sunday afternoon, February 10, at 2:30 p.m. The singing will be under the direction of Mrs. Byrd Cassibry. The public is invited.

Sam Lauderdale, chairman of the Senior Citizens' Advisory group, says the next meeting Tuesday, January 29, will feature an educational film furnished by the Mississippi Power Company in Gulfport. The February 5 meeting will be devoted to a covered-dish luncheon at noon, followed by a dramatic skit by Mrs. Rita Millet, of Long Beach, at 1 p.m. and of February 12th Mrs. Mildred Harrelson of Gulfport, will give an exhibition in oil painting. The February 19 session will be devoted to games at the VFW Hall on Railroad avenue.

Enchanted Toy Shop is Nereids ball theme

The Enchanted Toy Shop came to life as the "Spirit of Enchantment", portrayed by the Captain of Nereids, waved her magic wand and all of the children's toys came to life and entertained one another at the Krewe of Nereids Ball Saturday, February 2.

Staged in St. Joseph auditorium in Bay St. Louis, the event drew standing-room only crowd as T.D. Ashman reigned as King Nereus VIII with Queen Doris VIII, whose identity is not revealed.

Maids to the queen brilliantly depicted childhood games. They included London Bridge is Falling Down, Ping Pong, Cowboys and Indians, Dominoes and Pick Up Jacks. Their identities are also secret.

Dukes to King Nereus were Frederick Lampa, Terrance Feeney, Harmon E. Turan, Reginald Fayard, Armond H. Serpas and Gerald A. Bienvenu.

Pages to Queen Doris were Alvin Bernard, Jr., Susan Lorraine Cure, Michelle Ann Bienvenu and Janet Marie Handshoe.

During the festivities the royal couple from the 1973 Ball, King John M. Gallagher and his Consort were presented, attired in costumes reminiscent of their "Echoes of Famous Streets" theme along with members of their court.

Queen Doris VIII, representing the Queen of Diamonds from the deck of cards, was introduced wearing a gown of red and black velvet heavily beaded in rhinestones and sequins. Her mantle featured jewel encrusted diamond designs trimmed in white ermine.

The ball Captain who annually produces and directs the ball, was introduced in a glittering black gown heavily beaded in rhinestones and tiny mirrors. A black and white feather plumed headpiece completed her attire.

The parade Captain was presented by Charles Johnson, parade marshal. Her gown was a bright pink silk crepe with appliques beaded in gold. Her headpiece was of gold sequins bearing pink plumes.

Officers of the Nereids krewe entered the ballroom wearing silver blue eyelash skirts topped with poncho style tops in blue velvet beaded in silver sequins and rhinestones.

The ballroom was decorated to represent a toy shop. Large murals covered one wall with three castle tower windows with toys overlooking the gaiety of the evening. Large alphabet blocks and stuffed animals and dolls were spaced around the floor.

Joining the party of the toys were characters from the books of children's stories. Snow White and the seven dwarfs, (Dopey, Sleepy, Bashful, Grumpy, Sneezy, Happy and Doc) won a standing ovation from the audience when they appeared. The Pied Piper with his mice, Old King Cole, The Three Little Pigs, Alice in Wonderland with the rabbit and Mad Hatter plus so many more burst out of a large book to make the occasion complete.

Music for the event was furnished by Harry Morel's Russ Papalia Orchestra and Norris V. Fitzmorris was narrator. Special dance effects and choreography were produced by Doug Douglas. Designer of the court costumes was Carter Church and Krewe costumes were designed by Edward Scanlon.

The ball was followed by a champagne party hosted by the King and a Queen's Supper Dance at midnight.

The Krewe will repeat their activities in parade Sunday, February 17 in Waveland when Sebastian Cabot, 1974 Grand Marshal, leads the group through Waveland.

Gilbert Whavers

'Best defensive lineman' signs with La Tech

Louisiana Tech coach Maxie Lambright hopes to make a Bulldog out of a Tiger and Gilbert Whavers plans to cooperate completely.

Whavers, Bay High School senior named Most Valuable Defensive Lineman in the Gulf Coast Conference, recently signed a grant-in-aid scholarship with Louisiana Tech and is enthusiastic about becoming a part of Lambright's national champion Bulldogs.

Bay High School football coach J. E. Loiacano calls Whavers, a three year starter, the best defensive lineman he has ever coached.

Possessing amazing quickness despite his six foot, 230 pound frame, Whavers was also used extensively at fullback, a position he readily admits preferring. He averaged 5.3 yards on 66 carries this past year.

Several colleges approached Whavers but apparently the boys at Tech put on the best show.

"They seemed like they were interested in me more than the others," Whavers said. "I went to the campus and I liked the facilities and the coaches and players I met."

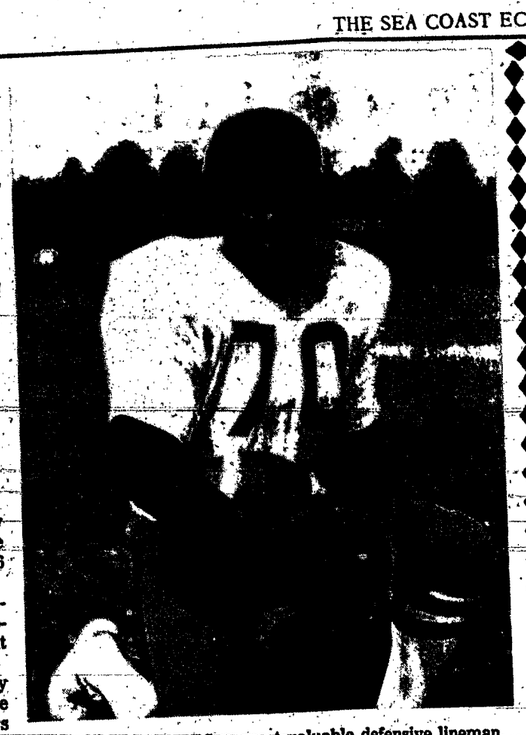

"My parents were really happy, and I think coach Loiacano was happy too. He influenced me too."

Whavers said that he thought the Bulldogs wanted him to play nose guard, but indicated he would like to try out for a fullback position also.

A versatile athlete, Whavers has also lettered three years in track and holds the Gulf Coast Conference record in the shot put with a heave of 52 feet one inch. He has been to the state track meet each of the last two years and is expected to be a strong contender again this spring. He was also named the Most Outstanding Defensive Lineman in the 1973 Pickle Bowl.

"Gilbert has a tremendous amount of confidence as far as playing football," Loiacano said, "Probably more than anyone we've ever had before."

Whavers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whavers, Jr., of Bay St. Louis.

GILBERT WHAVERS ... most valuable defensive lineman.

SSC wins one, loses one in coast tourney

By Edward Favre

St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws defeated the Bay High Tigers in their first game of the Gulf Coast Conference Basketball Tournament by a score of 66-55, Thursday night in the Ocean Springs High School gym.

Stanislaus took a first quarter 15-7 lead, and increased the lead to 38-17 at halftime.

The Rocks outscored the Tigers 15-11 in the third quarter, making the score 53-28.

The Tigers outscored the Rocks 27-13 in the fourth quarter, but it was not enough to overcome the lead Stanislaus built up in the first three quarters.

High scorer for the Tigers was Allison Farve with 24 points. Wade Koenenn and Arnold Fairconnetue each added 14 points for the Tigers.

Will Marler led Stanislaus scorers with 18 points, while Gerard Lymuel and Bud Lang each had 16 points.

In semi-final action Friday night, the Ocean Springs Greyhounds defeated the Rock-A-Chaws 74-59.

The first quarter was played on even terms with the Greyhounds outscoring the Rocks 15-13. The Greyhounds began to pull away from Stanislaus in the second quarter, outscoring the Rocks 22-9 to take a 37-22 halftime lead.

Ocean Springs outscored Stanislaus 24-8 in the third quarter, making the score 61-30. The Rock-A-chaws fought back in the fourth quarter and outscored the Greyhounds 29-13 but could not overcome the lead Ocean Springs had built up earlier in the game.

The victory for Ocean Springs put them in the finals against the Harrison Central Red Rebels, who went on to defeat the Greyhounds 76-75 Saturday night for the Conference Championship.

Allison Farve of Bay High and Gerard Lymuel of St. Stanislaus were named to the boys all-tournament team. Gerard Lymuel was also presented the most valuable offensive player of the tournament.

Pass High Notes

By Travis Ann Begue
Senior Class Reporter

Members of Pass Christian High School are proud to have such an outstanding girls basketball team. After losing seven girls last year and four of them starters, it didn't stop the excellence in the team. With a lot of determination and hard work Pass High took the Pascagoula River Conference.

Juniors and seniors on this year's team have been together since junior high years and in that five year period, they have brought home the conference championship four times.

Junior - senior player awards went to Connie Winstead for Outstanding Conference Girl and Susan Necaise and Judy Niolet were named All-Conference Girls.

Up to this season these girls hve won 69 games and lost 22. This year their win—loss record stands at 16—5. In the past five years, the girls team has won 85 games and lost 27, to gain a 76 percent average.

There is a lot of pride in the team and they are proven winners. Coach Dale Moran stated that he "would like to praise Pass High's great defense consisting of Sarah Williams and Susan Necaise and the outstanding work of these girls." Some of this credit should go to Mr. Moran, coach of the boys and girls basketball team.

by Edward Favre

Murphy and Gulfview winners in GC West conference

Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview Schools emerged as the first winners in the section A playoffs of the Gulf Coast Western Conference last Saturday at Gulfview School in Lakeshore.

Charles B. Murphy took the girls' championship after a 13-6 win over Gulfview led by the strong shooting of Lois Tops, while the two teams battled each other again for the boys' trophy with Gulfview coming out on top 35-18.

The section B tournament begins today at the Valena C. Jones gymnasium at 5 p.m.

In the finals, the two girls' teams were almost completely balanced. In the second half, Tops showed her strength for Murphy for a brief period scoring 11 points. Tracy Garcia and Doris Fontaine had three points apiece to account for Gulfview's scoring.

In the boys' match, Charles B. Murphy could never get their offense coordinated to mount a serious threat. The first quarter ended 14-4. Brian Shivers scored 10 of the first period points to give the Gulfview Bulldogs an insurmountable edge.

Chuck Benigno and David Fricke rallied Murphy to slow up the Bulldog attack, but it was too late as the Bulldogs took a 23-8 lead to the locker room at halftime.

Gulfview came back with full court pressure to force mistakes on Murphy. Murphy's scrappy defense kept the Bulldogs from converting many of these turnovers. The Bulldogs coasted through the fourth quarter and won it 35-18.

Brian Shivers scored 13 and Russell Seay turned in 12 points. Russell Seay as point man for the zone press led Gulfview's defense. Chuck Benigno and David Fricke were the defensive standouts for Chas. C. Murphy.

The tournament opened Thursday night with Annunciation of Kiln falling to St. Rose 41-31. Issac Darrensbourg poured in 22 and Alton Benoit added 11 for the victorious St. Rose Hawks. Terry Swilley took scoring honors for the defeated Annunciation Wildcats with 14 and Kevin Haas contributed 10 to the losing cause.

The Baby Rocks from St. Stanislaus clipped the Rebels of St. Paul 32-21. The Baby Rocks were never behind in the contest, and showed a big improvement and a balanced attack in the first round game eliminating St. Paul. St. Stanislaus depended on Eddie LeBreton for 13 and David Grapusa chipped in 12 to cinch the victory.

The second round Friday faced Chas. B. Murphy with Annunciation. Murphy went to a tenacious full court press and Lois Tops' hot hand annihilated Annunciation 36-5. Tops had 20 points.

St. Stanislaus fell to Chas. B. Murphy boys in the second game of the evening 19-12. The game was defense all the way as neither team could consistently put away scores against the opposition's defense.

The third bill pitted the Gulfview girls against the girls of St. Paul. Gulfview took the game 18-8 to advance to the finals.

The Gulfview boys played the last game Friday evening against St. Rose. Gulfview's depth was too much for St. Rose who went down 49-26. Midway in the first period Brian Shivers found the range and scored 32 points to set an individual conference scoring record.

In the girls' consolation round Saturday St. Paul defeated Annunciation 8-4 with Julie Wittmann scoring eight points for St. Paul. Natalie Necaise and Michele McAtee scored two buckets each for Annunciation.

In the boys' consolation game St. Stanislaus knocked off St. Rose 39-28. St. Rose jumped ahead with the stellar shooting of Alton Benoit, but the second quarter was the turning point for St. Stanislaus. They held St. Rose to two field goals and began to close the gap. Eddie LeBreton's hand came alive and the Baby Rocks grounded St. Rose's attack to a halt. In the second half St. Rose could only dig up 10 points while St. Stanislaus more than doubled that figure for a 39-28 victory. Alton Benoit hit 14 for the losers, and Eddie LeBreton filled the hoop for 20 to lead all scorers.

Senior Class Reporter

A team of 16 members of the Pass High Beta Club attended the State Beta Club convention in Jackson, February 1 and 2. Club officers attending were president Malcolm Jones, secretary Diane Davion, treasurer Denese Davion. The group arrived in Jackson Friday afternoon. After registration Beta Club members from throughout the state attended a meeting to hear speeches from candidates for state club offices.

New year begins new era

Beginning with 1974 crops, the Pearl River and Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committees, which took office January 1, will start administering the new farm legislation for local producers.

Committee members as this new era for agriculture begins are:

Pearl River County; J.O. Ladner, chairman, Joe R. Lee, vice chairman, Joe A. Wise, member, L.D. Davis, 1st alternate, Robert A. Burks, 2nd alternate.

Hancock County; Forest M. Lee, chairman, Orease P. Ladner, vice chairman, Rosa Shaw, member, Jack Shaw, 1st alternate, James O. Lee, 2nd alternate.

TARGET PRICE LEGISLATION

Target price programs for wheat, feed grains and cotton were included in the Agriculture Act of 1973 and will first apply to 1974 crops. The legislation sets national farm policy for 1974 through 1977 crops.

Since the target price law frees farmers to produce without restriction in answer to market demand, it is a turnaround from previous farm legislation, reported Madelyn R. Williams, executive director of the county ASCS office.

The target price legislation guarantees a minimum return for a producer's normal production on his allotted acres, but offers neither incentives nor restrictions on additional acreages. The pull of the marketplace will determine crop acreages.

Emphasizing that wheat, feed grains (corn, grain sorghum, barley) and cotton are the only crops now under target price legislation, Mrs. Williams said that considerable discussion is being heard around the country about target prices for some commodities now under restrictive-type programs, such as peanuts, rice, extra-long-staple cotton, and sugar.

Wool and Mohair Payment

The incentive price of 72 cents a pound for marketings of shorn wool and a support of 80.2 cents a pound for mohair will continue unchanged in 1974, from 1973 levels, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced today.

These prices are in accordance with the National Wool Act as amended by the Agricultural Act of 1970 and the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973. The National Wool Act, as amended, requires that support be at the above levels for each of the marketing years beginning January 1, 1971, and ending December 31, 1977.

Pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the incentive price for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs.

As in past years shorn wool payments will be based on a percentage of each producer's returns from sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the National average price received by all producers from shorn wool up to the announced incentive price of 72 cents a pound.

Mohair payments will be calculated in a manner similar to wool.

Present market conditions indicate that payments will not be required on 1973 marketings or either shorn wool or mohair. Present market prices are above the support levels.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

With this type of weather we have had for the past weekend looks like even hoping and wishing won't do any good. Fishermen will only have to wait and see what happens. Will probably be a month or so until good weather arrives, tides get back to normal and the waters clear. The Pearl River section is out for fishing and Pearl River has effected fishing all along the coast from Bayou Caddy past Half Moon.

Should the spillway above New Orleans be opened (it looks like it will be according to reports) it will make fishing worse than it is.

According to reports in the newspapers we can kiss oysters good-bye for this year. The few that have been gotten cost so much it takes the taste out of them.

Local sportsmen will have to turn their attention to soft crabbing and floundering in the next 2 months if they want seafood for the table. Soft crabs are caught all through the summer but March and April are the best months for them. Frog legs are another seafood delicacy. Frogs are numerous in this section and easy to get. It is also fun catching them. Frogging in Louisiana is closed during April and May. Did you know that frogs will strike popping bugs on a fly rod when used properly?

Been green trout fishing both Wednesday and Sunday, caught exactly one on each trip. The cause is the bad water.

Perch can be caught on earth worms when the water is not up to par. Bass are different they won't hit when the water is bad. Bad water is everywhere at this time.

Let's talk about real sportsmen—Eddie Engelhorn and Marion Gooden have just bought a 19 ft. fiberglass boat with a 100 H.P. motor. They expect to go out to the marshes and catch fish galore. Marion is the new publicity chairman for Diamondhead Women's Golf Club and a candidate for the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club membership. She is a real sport.

Bob and Mabel Seely visited Clayton Seely over the weekend. Both are real fishermen. They enjoy fishing and crabbing. It will be quite a while before things right, folks.

Bill Griffith spent the past week with his son Bill, Jr. in Houma, La. The weather cut down on the fishing trips. On Friday they managed to get to Isles Deneries and caught some nice speckles. They fished from a sea plane which Bill, Jr. flies.

John W. Magandy of Osseo, Minn., visited his friend, Gerald Necaise of the Bay. Bad weather and water prevented them from going fishing. John promised to come back again.

Miss Farin Sioshansi from Tehran, Iran, Persia has been visiting Larry Mauffray and family at Slidell, La. The Mauffrays met her when she was a student in Munsie, Indiana. Farin said she loved to play tennis, swimming and skiing and hopes to do some fishing while down this way.

In a couple of months when perch and bass can be caught on earth worms they can be gotten from Herman Holden on the old Kiln road by St. Henry's church. Herman said he has plenty of them.

We all know that Jacob W. Johns is an expert fly fisherman but what we didn't know is that he is an expert driver. He received a citation for driving more than three million miles in 46 years without an accident. Can't tell what these Georgians can do. Nolan Ladner made the presentation.

J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission announced that the yearly report of activities of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission's Enforcement Division for the calendar year 1973 reflects there were 10,599 citations issued to violators. This, Angelle said was an increase of 1,797 cases over the calendar year of 1972.

He said that the significant increase in the apprehension of violators of fish and game laws in 1973 was due to a stepped-up law enforcement program and an increase in the number of hunters and fishermen afield during 1973. Angelle pointed out that this was accomplished with the same number of personnel as in prior years.

"Full enforcement of fish and game laws," Angelle said, "is one of the basic tools in wildlife management. Without public cooperation in this field, all efforts to bolster wildlife populations would receive a serious setback."

The annual report shows a complete breakdown on types of violations in each of the 64 Louisiana parishes. It is available for review by anyone interested at the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission Building, Room 110, 400 Royal Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.

There are only a few more days left before all hunting closes on February 17th. Don't think hunting in general was too profitable the past year. Also don't think there were as many hunters out as in past years. Keeping bird dogs for a whole year to hunt only a couple of months is getting rather expensive and quail are getting scarcer and scarcer. There are no feeding grounds for them any more. The same thing applies to doves and dove hunters.

Jack Nicklaus did it again when he won the $220,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament. He beat a group of younger golf hopefuls to win top money, $44,000. Form will tell is a true saying.

There are a number of local golfers here about who play at Pass Christian Isles Golf Course at Henderson Point. It is a good course, properly kept up with a group of likable members and a capable pro. When fishing is bad one can play golf. Try it you will like it. Ask one of the following members to get you acquainted, C.C. McDonald, Jr., John Scafide, Sr., Sidney Prague, David and Jimmy McDonald, Sheldon Seuzeneau, Booey Blanchard, Marvin Dobson and many others. There are also lots of lady golfers who play regularly. There is a lady's day once a week which provides lots of fun.

Getting pretty close to planting a spring garden. It is lots of fun, besides providing food for the table. It gives us old timers something to do, something to watch grow as well as giving a healthy appetite. Now is the time to start planting seeds. Transplanting will come later.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Al Landry is a real sport who fishes, crabs, catches crayfish and such. He is always ready to go out with a pole and bait.

Forest fire danger builds

An increased alert status is now in effect for wildfire detection and suppression personnel of the State Forestry Commission as Mississippi moves into another annual danger season for forest and brush fire occurrence.

District Forester Ross Sherman reminded Forestry Commission field supervisors in a meeting earlier this month that a heavy amount of lower vegetation this year in most areas could spell trouble in the months ahead. To experienced firefighters, this heavy fuel condition often means extra difficulty in halting the spread of fires during dry and windy periods from now through April.

The energy crisis has and will continue to have its effect on the Mississippi Forestry Commission. Each citizen can do his part in conserving energy by calling the local dispatching tower when he plans to do any type of burning.

Hancock County residents should call 255-7152 to report a fire, or if they plan to do any burning. This will eliminate a truck checking on the fire and utilizing gasoline that is needed for a true emergency.

If you plan to do any burning or to report a wildfire, the Mississippi Forestry Commission appeals to you for your support by reporting it to the dispatching tower.

OLA Intramurals set Saturday

The second Intramurals at Our Lady's Academy begin this Saturday, Feb. 9. The doors open at 9:30 a.m. and kickpin activities will begin at 10. In between games the classes will put on a skit depicting their class names and the activity.

The class with the most spirit will have its banner displayed until the next Intramurals which is shceduled for April 27th.

NOTICE

Statement by Melvin "Mel" Villere,

Candidate for Mayor of Waveland

No-Gas-Increase-For Waveland! WHY?

Let me explain why. Just recently I read in one of our weekly newspapers that our acting mayor was not going to raise our natural gas prices. I'd like to call to the Waveland citizens attention (as I'm sure everyone already knows that have received their last utility bill) that not only our gas prices but also our water prices have just increased in the past sixty days. This was done under our present Mayor Pro Tem. And "low and behold" it was done without prior public notice. How many surprises can the citizens of Waveland stand to have sprung on them? One does not have to be a degreed mathematician to figure that the price of gas has increased approximately 25 per cent and water prices increased approximately 59 per cent. Think about that if you will or dare to. Since our water well is paid for and there has not been any major purchases of new equipment for the City of Waveland and also the cost of methods of supplying water has not increased. I cannot justify the recent increase, can you? Nor has there been any addition to the present manpower system of operations in the city. Also did the citizens know that in 1973 the charges for deposit and connection fee for gas and water was $37.79. When our present Mayor Pro-Tem (John Longo) took over this price was increased TO A GRAND TOTAL OF $160.00 that is an increase of 400 per cent. It seems that we cannot afford to have water and gas installed in a home today. Is this another of Mr. Longo's surprises without letting the public know in advance. Was the increase due to very poor management or supervision of O-U-R tax money. Hmmmm - could be!

Many of our citizens, as well as tourists, enjoy one recreation, that we are most graciously blessed with, as I do. This is fishing. I've just recently made a personal survey of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. My findings conclude that Waveland is the only city that does not have a public launching runway for our boats. As all of our sports fishermen would agree, would not the rock pile jetty right here in the heart of Waveland present us with one of the best boat launching facilities on the Coast. If you elect me as your next Mayor I promise you such a facility of our own. This way you would not have to travel out of town to launch your boat. The reason that I have not commented on my opposing candidates platform is that they have not presented one. Maybe that will be another unexpected surprise as was our utility bills. Hmmmmm.

If you elect me your Mayor for the great city of Waveland I will be a full time official. And I will close down my construction business. I feel as you do to the effect that being Mayor commands full devotion and supervision as well as energy. I might remind you that one of my opponents a short while ago wanted to resign as Alderman because of pressing personal business needs. Will he close his business completely - I think not. An Alderman under normal circumstances is required to attend city meetings once a month at night. If making city meetings once a month at night interferred with his pressing personal business needs, how then can he fulfill the required devotion and attendance of a full time Mayor?

If you elect me your Mayor I promise I will attend to city business forty plus hours a week, five days a week, 4 weeks a month, twelve months a year. I think our citizens want and deserve a full time Mayor. There is no other way.

Remember a few short years ago when Waveland had a road grader that was in use all the time. Have you seen that machine that you paid for lately? Right, neither have I!

Remember I will be on the move to supervise all functions of city personnel.

My office will be open to the general public. As a matter of fact I would like to know what is on our citizens mind from time to time; whether it be in the form of voice of appreciation or justified criticisms. You know yourself life is not a bed of roses and of course we will have our problems but just remember I'll be your full time Mayor twenty-five hours a day. Remember the decision is yours and take this into consideration I would not get elected if I had to buy votes with shells or other street improvements at the last minute. A man that solicits your votes in this form is not worthy of another persons respect or trust. What do you think?

Let me also remind you that elections are won and lost not just by people voting but also because they do not vote - I sincerely need your help, please get out and vote. Together we can make Waveland a model city in this time of tremendous growth along the Gulf Coast. Waveland's future is my future as well as your future.

In closing I'd just like to thank everyone for the great response that I have been receiving. Let me invite everyone that would like to discuss the issues further to give me a call at this telephone number 467-7910. (This is not just another political line I am very sincere with everything I have stated so far - so give me a call.)

Thank you very much.

Melvin R. (Mel) Villere
